Trauma Foundation

What is the North Dakota Trauma Foundation?

In 1995, federal funding for the North Dakota trauma system ceased to exist. At that point, six urban hospitals, the Emergency Nurses Association (ENA), and the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Association donated money in an attempt to fund the Trauma Coordinator position. In 1996, the state health department also allocated funding to support the position.

The North Dakota Trauma Foundation was officially formed in October 1998. The board of directors consists of a surgeon, emergency room physician, emergency registered nurse, registered nurse, trauma coordinator, hospital administrator, pre-hospital providers, and lay persons representing various geographical areas of the state.

Becoming a member of NDTF is important for several reasons. Your membership will help increase the availability of funds to support the mission and goals of NDTF, and will also help increase awareness of NDTF. Additionally, when the Foundation and Board conduct reviews for annual grants to EMS services and hospitals, NDTF members receive precedence.

The NDTF publishes a newsletter about trauma, education and injury prevention. Individual memberships are $20 per year, and Agency memberships are $50 per year for an entire emergency medical service. The North Dakota Trauma Foundation is an IRS 501(c)(3) organization and your contribution may be tax deductible.

Remember that trauma does not discriminate. Anyone can be a victim. Due to the rural nature of our state, the more our health care providers are trained, educated and prepared, the greater are a victim's chances for survival.
